TATLER: "A VILLAGE ILLUMINATED WITH FAIRY LIGHTS AT NIGHT"

The following statements were made about Bodrum Loft in the Tatler Travel Guide:

"Imagine a hotel that feels like a village moved to a hill covered with sandalwood, pine, olive, and citrus trees; of course, a village illuminated with fairy lights at night. This peaceful retreat consists mostly of single-story villas and has a minimalist atmosphere. And just a short walk away are two on-site restaurants: Loft Elia, which offers Aegean cuisine (the tomato salad and sea bass are incredible); and the super chic Paper Moon inspired by the Bosphorus. From the steep slope where the hotel is located, cute buggies filled with friendly drivers take you from your villa to the sea, where there are wooden decks with sun loungers and umbrellas, steps descending into the water, views of passing yachts, and drinks in ice buckets. This place, which is both comfortable and perfectionist, offers a family-friendly taste of Turkish cuisine, from homemade pizza and pastries to countless stargazing spots."

Bodrum Loft, preferred by holidaymakers from many countries around the world, has found its place in the lists of many prestigious magazines and newspapers worldwide since its opening. Publications such as The Times, Tatler, Vanity Fair, Conde Nast Traveller, Time, The Telegraph, and Forbes have praised Bodrum Loft for its standout features, environmentally friendly architecture, and quality.
